

Even after the water level has dropped, do not try to start cars that have been flooded, as there is a risk of damaging the car or electrocution.